

Why Mars?

...Because of the historic romance of the general public...Consider even today the associations of the word “Martian.” The exploration of Mars has a public resonance and support that probably no other goal of the space program can claim.

--Carl Sagan, in a 1996 Planetary Society essay